Hi,

This changes the purpose of that provision completely and seems to provide a legitimate basis for a provider to offer an abortion reversal medication. The inclusion of the prohibition was intended to prevent providers from deceiving patients and encouraging them to believe medication abortion reversal is possible. The amendment to the language legitimizes abortion reversal medications as something that could be consistent with existing standards of care. It would be more protective of the public to eliminate this addition to 129a entirely (and get at the deceptive practice by alleging the provision of inaccurate information to patients) rather than accept this amendment.

I hope this is helpful! Good luck!!
